A SCOTTISH WATER COMPANY

Get connected to a clean, reliable water supply

As well as desk-based connection assistance we'll manage all physical and ground work associated with the pipe installation.

From installation and testing through to final connection, we have the expertise to get your premises safely connected to the mains water supply.

Our team will manage the project at every step, including any digging required, the laying of pipework (including any pipework required on public roadways) and restoring the surface after the works are completed.

We have extensive experience delivering connections projects of all sizes, ensuring a smooth and stress-free supply connection.

Our team of expert engineers work alongside Water Industry Regulation Scheme (WIRS)-accredited suppliers to ensure our delivery quality meets the regulatory requirements of Scottish Water.

Benefits of working with Business Stream

Our expert team have extensive experience delivering connections projects of all sizes:

 work is overseen by our team of experts and completed to the high standards that meets the regulatory standards set out by Scottish Water

 a reliable delivery team to manage the project from start to finish, led by our expert project managers who will keep you updated throughout we'll liaise with Scottish Water on your behalf, managing the end-to-end process on your behalf and ensuring all proformas are completed on time and inspections are managed promptly, and we'll be on hand to help throughout to promptly answer any queries and provide expert support.

Our team will carry out flow and pressure testing, map existing utilities, produce ground condition surveys, and provide network design services as required.

“Business Stream really took ownership when we approached them about this project. Their thorough knowledge of the process and their willingness to help meant that we were able to get on with other aspects of the development, assured that the new connection was progressing.

We received a professional consultancy service that was really supportive.
